Miss Wilma Walker Dies.

Miss Wilma Walker died on Saturday morning of Typhoid fever, aged 60 years.

News of Mr. Dow.

James M. Dow, the well-known organist and composer, who has been a prominent figure in Boston musical circles for many years, arrived in San Francisco Monday from Los Angeles where he has been visiting near relatives since January 1st. He is enjoying his trip very much. Mr. Dow is represented by his son, who is traveling representative of the Walter Baker Co., and a prominent business man. The most distinguished American vocalists have experienced the pleasure of singing with him. He is one of the rarest of rare musicians and a perfect accompanist on the piano or organ.—San Francisco Music and Drama.

Funeral Services.

The funeral services of the late George Joseph (Heilands) were held at the family residence on Commercial street last Friday afternoon. The house was filled with relatives, friends and former associates of the young man, who had gathered to pay their last tribute of love and respect to one who but a few days since had been in the prime of his life, but who had been suddenly called away.

The services were conducted by Rev. William Hyde, pastor of Trinity Church, and Rev. B. S. Snyder of the Palou chapel.

7 mos., at her home on Commercial street after a two weeks' illness. Her brother was shocked to hear of her sudden death but was not able to come on to the city with his wife. Her son arrived in time for the funeral. Services were held on Monday. It is but three years since her dear parents died and since their demise Miss Walker had lived alone. Industrious and faithful she will be missed by a large circle of relatives and friends.

Mrs. Cordelia Case.
Cordelia Case, widow of the late James H. Case, passed away at the home of her son Frederick Case, on Washington street, Monday afternoon, after an illness of several weeks. The deceased was 88 years, 7 months and 19 days of age and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. May, and a son, Frederick Case. The funeral services were held from her late home at 2 o'clock Monday.

The first young lady, Mrs. William Harrington, was greeted with a flourish.

The high school was greeted with smiles and precision and received well deserved applause. Miss Harley's talent as a reader is too well known and universally recognized to require further comment, and will say, however, that the variety of her selections proved the wide range of her capabilities. The solos by Misses Hudson and Webster were rendered in good taste.

Miss Harley was the first to read, and the ladies. The piano solo by Miss Harley was a classic gem and was greeted with a perfection of technique seldom attained.

Incidental Fire.

Two weeks ago we recorded an ill-fated attempt to burn the house of T. H. Emerson on Pleasant street. Mr. Emerson's house is evidently pursued by an enemy who carries a torch and Wednesday night or rather early Thursday morning this torch was applied to the mill and warehouse on East street.

About four o'clock Mr. Kennedy who lives near the mill discovered it to be on fire and he endeavored to arrest it. A large quantity of fuel had been stored at that end and the fire was under good headway when discovered. Neighboring citizens and those 2 were quickly on hand and
